CURRICULUM VITAE

November 2006

PERSONAL

I was born in Australia in 1940 and resided there until 1964. Subsequently, I lived for a year in Philadelphia (teaching as a legal writing fellow at the University of Pennsylvania Law School) and a year in New Haven, Connecticut (doing graduate work at Yale Law School). In 1966 I came to Toronto to teach at the Osgoode Hall Law School. Since 1966 I have resided in Canada, except for visiting appointments and sabbatical leaves outside the country.

I am married to Nancy H. Watson and we have two children, Sarah (born 1971) and Christopher (born 1974).

SUMMARY

I took my LL.B. at the University of Melbourne, Australia and my LL.M. at Yale University. I have been a Law Professor at the Osgoode Hall Law School of York University since 1966 and have been a visiting professor at University of Southern California, University of Toronto, Duke University Law School, Haifa University Law School, University of Sydney Law School and Monash University Law School (Prato, Italy, campus)

I was in private practice in the litigation department of McCarthy Tétrault (formerly McCarthy & McCarthy) during 1986/1987. From 1991-1993 I was on a leave of

AWARDS

Law Society Medal for the Law Society of Upper Canada

Samuel E. Gates Litigation Award by the American College of Trial Lawyers, 2004

“The award honours a lawyer or judge who has made a significant contribution to the improvement of the litigation process. Previous recipients of the award have included the Honourable Erwin N. Griswold, former Dean of the Law School of Harvard College, Professor John W. Reed of the University of Michigan Law School, the Honourable Sam C. Pointer, Chief Judge of the United States District Court, Birmingham, Alabama, and the Honourable William J. Brennan, Jr., Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, amongst others. In making the award, the American College noted that Professor Watson's reputation and record of service in the teaching of advocacy skills and the intricacies of the litigation process to hundreds of law students and lawyers are renowned across North America”.

David Mundell Medal for outstanding contribution to the law through legal writing by the Ontario Bar Association. 2005

“Professor Garry Watson, Q.C. who was recognized at today's awards luncheon by Ontario Attorney General Michael Bryant (LL.B. '92) for Professor Watson's outstanding contribution to legal scholarship, particularly his comprehensive annotated publications of the Ontario Rules of Civil Procedure. Professor Watson's Ontario Civil Procedure and Ontario Civil Practice are a requirement for the library of any practicing lawyer in Ontario and are relied upon regularly by the Supreme Court of Canada as well as Appellate and Trial Courts across the country. Professor Watson is intimately familiar with the Rules of Civil Procedure because was counsel to the committee which drafted the revised Rules some years ago.” Dean Patrick Monahan, Osgoode Hall Law School

REPORTS

1. "Canadian Civil Procedure".

This paper was contributed to the "International Encyclopedia of Comparative Law" (a co-operative effort by a large international group of legal scholars). The paper will not itself be published in the Civil Procedure volume of the Encyclopedia. Rather, it was been integrated by Professor Ben Kaplan into his general chapter on Civil Procedure in Common Law countries. (November, 1970).

2. "Report on some aspects of court administration in Los Angeles".

A report for the Ontario Law Reform Commission's Project on the Administration of Ontario Courts (August, 1971).

A paper prepared for the O.L.R.C.'s Project on the Administration of Ontario Courts (August, 1972).

5. "Pre-Trial Conference Evaluation Project".
(First & Second Interim Reports, and a Final Report).

These are reports of a project evaluating the impact of the experimental use of pre-trial conferences in the High Court of Ontario, Toronto Jury List (October, 1975). The evaluation was carried out for, and the reports submitted to, the High Court of Ontario. As a result of these reports the High Court agreed to conduct a controlled experiment in the use of pre-trial conferences in the Toronto Non-Jury List.

6. "The Impact of Pre-Trial Conferences: An Interim Report" (with M. Stevenson and E. Weissman).

This is an Interim Report, prepared in July 1977, of The Ontario Pre-Trial Conference Experiment --a controlled experiment in the use and impact of
