Robert Clifford is WSÁNEĆ and a member of the Tsawout First Nation on Vancouver Island. He carries the name YELKÁTTE, which was passed to him by his late grandfather Earl Claxton Sr. He is a doctoral candidate at Osgoode Hall Law School, York University, and lives and writes in his home community of Tsawout. His work engages the resurgence of WSÁNEĆ laws and seeks to relate the ways in which those laws reflect and generate out of the values, philosophies, lands, and worldviews of his people. He has taught a field course on the re-emergence of WSÁNEĆ law, jointly with John Borrows, at the University of Victoria's Faculty of Law.

We use Indigenous legal norms for hosting this event.
For your Giveaway, we invite you to contribute reflections to the circle with Rob Clifford after he finishes his presentation.
